COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course will explore the fundamental principles of health conservation and disease prevention, and provide an introduction to scientific, socio-cultural, and attitudinal aspects of alcohol and drug problems.

Acknowledgments
The contents of PubH 3004 have been developed with the contributions of numerous instructors. Dr. Harry Lando and Sarah Sevcik, the current instructors, have been involved with the majority of recent content and modifications. Former faculty/instructors, including Jim Rothenberger and Dana Farley, had roles in either the conceptual development or actual content of the current course, and are acknowledged for their contributions.

COURSE PREREQUISITES
There are no prerequisites for this course.
COURSE GOALS & OBJECTIVES

The basic objectives of this course — indeed of all courses and of the university itself are engraved in stone over Northrop Auditorium. Glance at them from time to time. The instructors of this course take them seriously and have designed the lectures and examinations to meet these objectives. In a more practical sense, we can identify three major educational objectives:

1. To understand the impact of human health on history, cultures, religion, a community’s sense of values — even politics, law, and community’s organization — as an orientation to the “scholarly” aspect of personal and community health.
2. To understand enough about one’s physical self — structure and function — so that one can communicate intelligently about health and disease, treatment and quackery.
3. To teach University students enough about health services, health products, and the health delivery system so that they will be able to function effectively as consumers in the health marketplace.
4. As individuals, students will know basic physiological, psychological, social, and economic effects of drugs for the purpose of making informed decisions.
5. As members of the community of scholars, students will be able to communicate intelligently about physiological, psychological, social, and economic effects of drugs; and be able to analyze common substance abuse issues that may be relevant to their majors and careers.
6. As citizens of local communities and the world, students will know the impact of drugs, both legal and illegal, on history, cultures, law, and community.

METHODS OF INSTRUCTION AND WORK EXPECTATIONS

Course Workload Expectations

Basic Concepts in Personal and Community Health is a 4-credit course. The University expects that for each credit, you will spend a minimum of three hours per week attending class or comparable online activity, reading, studying, completing assignments, etc. over the course of a 15-week term. Thus, this course requires approximately 180 hours of effort spread over the course of the term in order to earn an average grade.

This class is largely lecture based; it is your responsibility to attend lectures, including any guest lectures that will be presented throughout the semester. It is our intention to make PowerPoint slides [and/or a PDF version] available on Canvas either prior to or post-lecture, but this will not always be possible and the slides may not be available before class.

Communication

Your University email account and Canvas are the primary form of communication for this course; you are responsible for reading all course related emails sent to your University email account and through Canvas and contacting us in a timely manner with any questions you may have. We will use your University e-mail address or Canvas to notify you of important announcements such as examinations and forced cancellation of classes due to weather. If you use a different e-mail address than the one the University has assigned, please go to the UMN’s validation website and forward your University e-mail account to the one you are using. You can also get to this site via OneStop.

Emailing Us

- For general information and questions, your Teaching Assistants are your first line of contact and can be reached at the emails listed on page 1.
- When sending email, your subject line should include your last name, the course number, and a brief descriptor. An example subject line: Yang, Pubh 3004, BAC assignment
- Use your official University of Minnesota account for all email correspondence with us. Do not use personal email accounts to contact us for course related matters; we will only respond to emails sent from University email accounts.
- We will generally reply to your email within 24-36 hours, except for weekends.

Learning Community

School of Public Health courses ask students to discuss frameworks, theory, policy, and more, often in the context of past and current events and policy debates. Many of our courses also ask students to work in teams or discussion groups. We do not come to our courses with identical backgrounds and experiences and building on what we already know about collaborating, listening, and engaging is critical to successful professional, academic, and scientific engagement with topics.

In this course, students are expected to engage with each other in respectful and thoughtful ways.

In group work, this can mean:
- Setting expectations with your groups about communication and response time during the first week of the semester (or as soon as groups are assigned) and contacting the TA or instructor if scheduling problems cannot be overcome.
- Setting clear deadlines and holding yourself and each other accountable.
- Determining the roles group members need to fulfill to successfully complete the project on time.
- Developing a rapport prior to beginning the project (what prior experience are you bringing to the project, what are your strengths as they apply to the project, what do you like to work on?)

In group discussion, this can mean:
- Respecting the identities and experiences of your classmates.
• Avoid broad statements and generalizations. Group discussions are another form of academic communication and responses to instructor questions in a group discussion are evaluated. Apply the same rigor to crafting discussion posts as you would for a paper.
• Consider your tone and language, especially when communicating in text format, as the lack of other cues can lead to misinterpretation.

Like other work in the course, all student to student communication is covered by the Student Conduct Code (https://z.umn.edu/studentconduct).

COURSE TEXT & READINGS

Writing in this course
Learning to write is a lifelong process that is refined through your personal and professional experiences. Through writing we gain knowledge and communicate our ideas. The University of Minnesota is committed to the belief that writing and learning are inseparable, and that learning to write effectively is one of the most intellectually empowering components of a university education. One main goal of writing is to help you become a more critical thinker and prepare you to communicate effectively in a variety of situations in your future employment and as a citizen. We hope that by the end of the course you will agree that writing about science and public health is an integral element of scientific discovery and analysis. We are committed to helping all students improve their writing and we recognize that each student will start and end that process at a different place. Work on your assignments sufficiently ahead of time so that you can build in time for feedback and revision. Feel free to contact us to arrange a consultation once you have an outline or a reasonable draft.

Course Website
As part of the University of Minnesota’s ongoing mission to review and evaluate emerging instructional technology, the University of Minnesota conducted a pilot from 2015-2017 to assess Canvas as a learning management system (LMS) and has since determined that the University will transition all courses to Canvas by Spring 2019. This course has already transitioned and is using the Canvas learning management system (instead of Moodle).

Go to https://umn.instructure.com/ to log in to the Canvas course site(s). You can also find a link to Canvas in MyU under Key Links.

Course Texts and Readings
1. There are two textbooks for this course:

3. i>Clicker: We will be using the i>Clicker technology in this course. You can buy or rent the i>Clicker 2 from the UMN Bookstore. For more information, visit this site. Make sure you are using the i>Clicker brand (see image below) and NOT a Turning Point brand. There is not an alternative option for the iClickers online, therefore please contact us if you are having issues with your iClicker. (Also, if you observe scholastic dishonesty in regard to the answering of iClicker questions (e.g., someone using an iClicker for a student who is not present), please report it.)

4. Additional required readings are listed in the schedule below and can be accessed via Canvas.

Due to the nature of the topics, further required readings may be added throughout the semester. All of these will be accessible via the Canvas course page.

- N = achievement that is not satisfactory and signifies that the work was either 1) completed but at a level that is not worthy of credit, or 2) not completed and there was no agreement between the instructor and student that the student would receive an I (Incomplete).
Policy Description

Scholastic Dishonesty, Plagiarism, Cheating, etc.
- You are expected to do your own academic work and cite sources as necessary. Failing to do so is scholastic dishonesty. Scholastic dishonesty means plagiarizing; cheating on assignments or examinations; engaging in unauthorized collaboration on academic work; taking, acquiring, or using test materials without faculty permission; submitting false or incomplete records of academic achievement; acting alone or in cooperation with another to falsify records or to obtain dishonestly grades, honors, awards, or professional endorsement; altering, forging, or misusing a University academic record; or fabricating or falsifying data, research procedures, or data analysis (As defined in the Student Conduct Code). For additional information, please see https://communitystandards.umn.edu/

The Office for Student Conduct and Academic Integrity has compiled a useful list of Frequently Asked Questions pertaining to scholastic dishonesty: https://z.umn.edu/integrity.

If you have additional questions, please clarify with your instructor. Your instructor can respond to your specific questions regarding what would constitute scholastic dishonesty in the context of a particular class - e.g., whether collaboration on assignments is permitted, requirements and methods for citing sources, if electronic aids are permitted or prohibited during an exam.

Indiana University offers a clear description of plagiarism and an online quiz to check your understanding (http://z.umn.edu/iuplagiarism).

Assignments
- All assignments require you to upload your assignment to Canvas by the due date and time. All assignments should be submitted as a Word document (.doc or .docx) or PDF (.pdf) format, unless stated otherwise. If you have any questions or concerns about how to upload to Canvas, use the help icon in the lower left corner on Canvas, which displays a variety of ways to request help (online form, hotline, chat, etc.). As a reminder, the direct link to Canvas is here

NOTE: It is your responsibility to make sure the assignment has been uploaded to Canvas by the due date. Double-check to make sure you have uploaded the correct document(s). Failure to upload the correct documents on time will be subject to the late assignment policy.

Our intention is to have grades for each assignment available on Canvas approximately two weeks after the due date. It is your responsibility to keep up-to-date with the grades provided and inform your TA if you have any questions or concerns regarding a grade for your assignments and exams. Concerns with grading must be communicated with a TA within two weeks of the grade being posted to Canvas for us to address the issue.

Late Assignments
- Unless you have been granted an extension on an assignment for a compelling reason, for each day past the original due date, 10% of the maximum grade will be deducted, for up to five days late. Please contact your TA as soon as possible via email in the case of an emergency or illness, as this will help ensure that your extension can be considered. NOTE: Whether 1 minute late or 19 hours late, this policy stands. Therefore, be sure to give yourself enough time to upload your assignments to Canvas by the due date and time. If you have any questions or concerns about how to upload to Canvas, contact Canvas in advance of the due date. Assignments will not be accepted after the 5th day overdue.

- One day late = the max you will be able to earn is 90%
- Two days late = the max you will be able to earn is 80%
- Three days late = the max you will be able to earn is 70%
- Four days late = the max you will be able to earn is 60%
- Five days late = the max you will be able to earn is 50%

Electronics
- One seating section of the course allows electronics – including phones, laptops, and tablets. The other two sections of the course do not allow electronics.
Make-up exams

If you are prevented by illness or other emergency from taking an exam at the regularly scheduled time, you must:

1. Notify your TA before the start of the exam
2. Provide proper documentation of illness/circumstance for the TA.

Note that the instructor has primary responsibility to decide if an absence is due to unavoidable or legitimate circumstances, and you must provide proper documentation of the issue. Failure to do so may result in a score of 0 on the exam.

In the case of make-up exams, it is your responsibility to contact the TA to set up a time to retake an exam. Make-up exams must be conducted within one week of the original exam date. Verifiable documentation is needed for any reason for not making a regular exam time.

NOTE: You must provide documentation that is verified BEFORE the makeup exam is scheduled. You CANNOT take the exam if you do not provide verified documentation.

Extra Credit

Students can choose from several extra credit options throughout the term and earn up to 12.5 extra credit points through the following:

- 7.5 points from Drug forum discussion posts [The highest three scores will be kept]
- 5 points for AA/NA/Al-Anon extra credit assignment

Specific details will be provided on the course Canvas site.

Course evaluation

The SPH will collect student course evaluations electronically using a software system called CoursEval: www.sph.umn.edu/courseval. The system will send email notifications to students when they can access and complete their course evaluations. Students who complete their course evaluations promptly will be able to access their final grades just as soon as the faculty member renders the grade in SPHGrades: www.sph.umn.edu/grades. All students will have access to their final grades through OneStop two weeks after the last day of the semester regardless of whether they completed their course evaluation or not. Student feedback on course content and faculty teaching skills are an important means for improving our work. Please take the time to complete a course evaluation for each of the courses for which you are registered.

Retaking course

If you are retaking this course, we expect you to review the feedback provided on the assignments submitted during the semester you previously took the course and revise before resubmitting. If you no longer have the feedback from that term, ask your instructor to provide you with a copy. Please note, the course team revises assignments each semester, so you’ll need to use the templates and instructions on the course site for this term. If an assignment submission is the same version submitted in the past with no edits, it might result in a lower grade if it does not fully meet the current expectations.

Incomplete contracts

A grade of incomplete “I” shall be assigned at the discretion of the instructor when, due to extraordinary circumstances (e.g., documented illness or hospitalization, death in family, etc.), the student was prevented from completing the work of the course on time. The assignment of an “I” requires that a contract be initiated and completed by the student before the last official day of class, and signed by both the student and instructor. If an incomplete is deemed appropriate by the instructor, the student in consultation with the instructor, will specify the time and manner in which the student will complete course requirements. Extension for completion of the work will not exceed one year (or earlier if designated by the student’s college). For more information and to initiate an incomplete contract, students should go to SPHGrades at: www.sph.umn.edu/grades.

Students should refer to the Refund and Drop/Add Deadlines for the particular term at OneStop for information and deadlines for withdrawing from a course. As a courtesy, students should notify their instructor and, if applicable, advisor of their intent to withdraw. Students wishing to withdraw from a course after the noted final deadline for a particular term must contact the School of Public Health Office of Admissions and Student Resources at sph-ssc@umn.edu for further information.

Student Conduct Code
The University seeks an environment that promotes academic achievement and integrity, that is protective of free inquiry, and that serves the educational mission of the University. Similarly, the University seeks a community that is free from violence, threats, and intimidation; that is respectful of the rights, opportunities, and welfare of students, faculty, staff, and guests of the University; and that does not threaten the physical or mental health or safety of members of the University community.

As a student at the University, you are expected to adhere to Board of Regents Policy: Student Conduct Code. To review the Student Conduct Code, please visit the website here.

Note that the conduct code specifically addresses disruptive classroom conduct, which means “engaging in behavior that substantially or repeatedly interrupts either the instructor’s ability to teach or student learning. The classroom extends to any setting where a student is engaged in work toward academic credit or satisfaction of program-based requirements or related activities.”

Use of Personal Electronic Devices in the Classroom
Using personal electronic devices in the classroom setting can hinder instruction and learning, not only for the student using the device but also for other students in the class. To this end, the University establishes the right of each faculty member to determine if and how personal electronic devices are allowed to be used in the classroom. For complete information, please reference this site.

Scholastic Dishonesty
You are expected to do your own academic work and cite sources as necessary. Failing to do so is scholastic dishonesty. Scholastic dishonesty means plagiarizing; cheating on assignments or examinations; engaging in unauthorized collaboration on academic work; taking, acquiring, or using test materials without faculty permission; submitting false or incomplete records of academic achievement; acting alone or in cooperation with another to falsify records or to obtain dishonestly grades, honors, awards, or professional endorsement; altering, forging, or misusing a University academic record; or fabricating or falsifying data, research procedures, or data analysis. (Student Conduct Code) If it is determined that a student has cheated, he or she may be given an "F" or an "N" for the course, and may face additional sanctions from the University. For this course, plagiarism includes self-plagiarism; that is, "submitting the same or substantially similar papers (or creative work) for more than one course without consent of all instructors concerned." Sharing b- clickers is another form of scholastic dishonesty. Additionally, no electronics, including cell phones, may be used at any time for any reason during exams. Failure to comply will result with a zero on the exam and a report to the Office for Community Standards.

Additionally, in this course you will be asked to verify that your assignments are your own work. As part of the Orientation Quiz, you will sign your name to agree to the disclaimer. Disclaimer: Please review the Plagiarism document posted on Canvas. Plagiarism will not be tolerated in any form. Please include an online signature (i.e., type your name on the line below) to confirm that you authenticate this work as your own.

The Office for Community Standards has compiled a useful list of Frequently Asked Questions pertaining to scholastic dishonesty: If you have additional questions, please clarify with your instructor for the course. Your instructor can respond to your specific questions regarding what would constitute scholastic dishonesty in the context of a particular class-e.g., whether collaboration on assignments is permitted, requirements and methods for citing sources, if electronic aids are permitted or prohibited during an exam.

Makeup Work for Legitimate Absences
Students will not be penalized for absence during the semester due to unavoidable or legitimate circumstances. Such circumstances include verified illness, participation in intercollegiate athletic events, subpoenas, jury duty, military service, bereavement, and religious observances. Such circumstances do not include voting in local, state, or national elections. For complete information, please visit this site.

Appropriate Student Use of Class Notes and Course Materials
Taking notes is a means of recording information but more importantly of personally absorbing and integrating the educational experience. However, broadly disseminating class notes beyond the classroom community or accepting compensation for taking and distributing classroom notes undermines instructor interests in their intellectual work product while not substantially furthering instructor and student interests in effective learning. Such actions violate shared norms and standards of the academic community. For additional information, please visit this site.

Sexual Harassment
"Sexual harassment" means unwelcome sexual advances, requests for sexual favors, and/or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature. Such conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with an individual's work or academic performance or creating an intimidating, hostile, or offensive working or academic environment in any University activity or program. Such behavior is not acceptable in the University setting. For additional information, please consult https://policy.umn.edu/hr/sexharassassault.

Equity, Diversity, Equal Opportunity, and Affirmative Action
The University will provide equal access to and opportunity in its programs and facilities, without regard to race, color, creed, religion, national origin, gender, age, marital status, disability, public assistance status, veteran status, sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression. For more information, please consult Board of Regents Policy.

Disability Accommodations
The University of Minnesota is committed to providing equitable access to learning opportunities for all students. Disability Resource Center (DRC) is the campus office that collaborates with students who have disabilities to provide and/or arrange reasonable accommodations. If you have, or think you may have, a disability (e.g., mental health, attentional, learning, chronic health, sensory, or physical), please contact DS at 612-626-1333 to arrange a confidential discussion regarding equitable access and reasonable accommodations.

If you are registered with the DRC and have a current letter requesting reasonable accommodations, please contact your instructor as early in the semester as possible to discuss how the accommodations will be applied in the course. For more information, please see the DRC website.

Mental Health and Stress Management
As a student you may experience a range of issues that can cause barriers to learning, such as strained relationships, increased anxiety, alcohol/drug problems, feeling down, difficulty concentrating and/or lack of motivation. These mental health concerns or stressful events may lead to diminished academic performance and may reduce your ability to participate in daily activities. University of Minnesota services are available to assist you. You can learn more about the broad range of confidential mental health services available on campus via the Student Mental Health Website.

Academic Freedom and Responsibility: for courses that do not involve students in research
Academic freedom is a cornerstone of the University. Within the scope and content of the course as defined by the instructor, it includes the freedom to discuss relevant matters in the classroom. Along with this freedom comes responsibility. Students are encouraged to develop the capacity for critical judgment and to engage in a sustained and independent search for truth. Students are free to take reasoned exception to the views offered in any course of study and to reserve judgment about matters of opinion, but they are responsible for learning the content of any course of study for which they are enrolled.*

Reports of concerns about academic freedom are taken seriously, and there are individuals and offices available for help. Contact the instructor, the Department Chair, your adviser, the associate dean of the college (Dr. Kristin Anderson, SPH Dean of Student Affairs), or the Vice Provost for Faculty and Academic Affairs in the Office of the Provost. *Language adapted from the American Association of University Professors “Joint Statement on Rights and Freedoms of Students”.
